CONSEQUENTIALISM AND CATHOLICISM

The principal reason given to support the dropping of the atomic bomb on Hiroshima is that it saved many more lives than the several hundred thousand civilian casualties in the vicinity of the explosions. In other words, the overall loss of life in a direct invasion of Japan would have been much higher than the deaths due to the atomic bomb. By many accounts, that statement is probably true, but does that make the dropping of the atomic bomb Hiroshima and Nagasaki justified? Obviously, the actual answer to this question is much more complicated than the overly simplified way I framed it. But I have done so to make another point, not necessarily about Hiroshima.

So, leaving aside the specifics of Hiroshima, let us go to the moral reasoning often used to support it. Having its history in the late 18th and early 19th century philosophy of Utilitarianism, the moral philosophy of Consequentialism holds that the consequences of a particular action form the basis for any valid moral judgment about that action. Thus, from a consequentialist standpoint, a morally right action is one that produces a good outcome, or consequence. A common simplification of this is “the ends justify the means”, provided that the “end” or outcome of our action is something “good”. Other versions of this, whether political “the greatest good for the greatest number” or personal “the maximum pleasure and the minimal pain”, are all based on the same principle. It is a simple, efficient, and relatively consistent moral philosophy, and thus very appealing. It has also become the de facto moral philosophy of the West. It is however, from a Christian perspective, quite defective for it places complete emphasis on only one part of the multiple factors that need to be taken into consideration when evaluating the morality of a human act.

Catholic moral philosophy takes into account consequences, but as a secondary consideration, along with intention. The first priority is whether the “object”, the act that is done is good or evil in itself. The Catechism of the Catholic Church puts it this way, “The morality of human acts depends on: the object chosen; the end in view or the intention; the circumstances of the action. The object, the intention, and the circumstances make up the “sources,” or constitutive elements, of the morality of human acts.” (CCC #1750) All three parts of a human act: object, intention, and circumstance must be good for the moral act to be good. Briefly, I will look at these three distinct parts of a human act.

The object is that which is “done”, the action so to speak, must be something “good”. In itself, the action must be good in order for the total human act to be good. There are some actions, which in themselves are intrinsically disordered and can never be done, even if one has a good intention. For instance, in order to support a friend or to defend one’s position, a person may choose to harm another person’s good name through calumny. While the desire to help one’s friend out is a good thing, one cannot resort to an action which in itself is always wrong (i.e. Calumny - a false and malicious statement designed to injure the reputation of someone or something).

The intention must also be good for a human act to be good. We must intend the good thing we do for a good reason as well. To see how this works we can look at a good thing done for the wrong reason. Think of notorious criminal who gives money to a church out of vanity or to look good in the community but has no desire to really help people, nor change his or her evil behavior. Here we can see how an evil intention (vanity) can distort a good object (giving to a charity).

The final part of a human act are the circumstances. The Catechism explains it very well, “The circumstances, including the consequences, are secondary elements of a moral act. They contribute to increasing or diminishing the moral goodness or evil of human acts (for example, the amount of a theft). They can also diminish or increase the agent's responsibility (such as acting out of a fear of death). Circumstances of themselves cannot change the moral quality of acts themselves; they can make neither good nor right an action that is in itself evil.” (CCC #1754)

Although Catholic moral philosophy is a bit more complicated, on a philosophical level it is much more dynamic and applicable in all situations, even extreme ones. It is also a much more comprehensive and fair assessment of the many factors that go into a human act. Finally and most importantly, it is also the method that is inline with and faithful to the teachings of Christ and the truth found in Sacred Scripture.

We know that in the end it is God and God alone who can properly judge a person’s actions, for only God is aware of all the minute factors and details that go into a person’s actions. At the same time, we do have a tool that we can and should employ to the best of our ability to decide the course of action for ourselves that will conform to the will of God. And to a certain extent, we will also be able to assess the observable morality of the actions of others, again leaving the final judgment in God’s hands.

So, to summarize, all three parts of a human act: object, intention, and circumstance must be good for the moral act to be good. Let’s do our best to make sure this is how we act in our lives and expect from our government leaders.

I encourage you to review and reflect on the very helpful and beautiful sections on morality in Catechism (paragraphs 1691-1761). It is just a few pages or so and very instructive on the philosophical foundation of Catholic morality.

God bless you,
Father Joseph Byerley

Our Goal: $155,500 % of Goal: 71.4%

The House of Charity recently conducted a mailing to time to participate in this important effort to make this year's campaign a success. There are many parishioners who have given in the past and who have not yet made a gift.

To all of our parishioners, please consider a sacrificial gift to help continue the mission of the Church here in our parish and in our Diocese. There are still many people who are in need and greatly benefit from the House of Charity campaign. YOU can make a difference.

-- I KINGS 19:7

God knows that committing to a Stewardship lifestyle is difficult. However, we were not designed to do it on our own, we need His help. Fortunately, God gave us the greatest gift of all, His son, Jesus. Through the gift of the Eucharist, we join our sacrifice with the sacrifice of the Holy Mass and receive the strength and courage to be His joyful disciples.

AUGUST 8 — NINETEENTH SUNDAY IN ORDINARY TIME

Reading I: I Kings 19: 4-8

Elijah went a day's journey into the desert, until he came to a broom tree and sat beneath it. He prayed for death saying: "This is enough, O LORD! Take my life, for I am no better than my fathers." He lay down and fell asleep under the broom tree, but then an angel touched him and ordered him to get up and eat. Elijah looked and there at his head was a hearth cake and a jug of water. After he ate and drank, he lay down again, but the angel of the LORD came back a second time, touched him, and ordered, "Get up and eat, else the journey will be too long for you!" He got up, ate, and drank; then strengthened by that food, he walked forty days and forty nights to the mountain of God, Horeb.

Reading II: Ephesians 4: 30 – 5:2

Brothers and sisters: Do not grieve the Holy Spirit of God, with which you were sealed for the day of redemption. All bitterness, fury, anger, shouting, and reviling must be removed from you, along with all malice. And be kind to one another, compassionate, forgiving one another as God has forgiven you in Christ. So be imitators of God, as beloved children, and live in love, as Christ loved us and handed himself over for us as a sacrificial offering to God for a fragrant aroma.

Gospel: John 6: 41-51

The Jews murmured about Jesus because he said, "I am the bread that came down from heaven," and they said, "Is this not Jesus, the son of Joseph? Do we not know his father and mother? Then how can he say, 'I have come down from heaven'?" Jesus answered and said to them, "Stop murmuring among yourselves. No one can come to me unless the Father who sent me draw him, and I will raise him on the last day. It is written in the prophets: They shall all be taught by God. Everyone who listens to my Father and learns from him comes to me. Not that anyone has seen the Father except the one who is from God; he has seen the Father. Amen, amen, I say to you, whoever believes has eternal life. I am the bread of life. Your ancestors ate the manna in the desert, but they died; this is the bread that comes down from heaven so that one may eat it and not die. I am the living bread that came down from heaven; whoever eats this bread will live forever; and the bread that I will give is my flesh for the life of the world."

READINGS FOR THE WEEK

Reading I: I Kings 19: 4-8

Elijah the prophet flees from Ahab's kingdom when that king refused to convert from paganism. He heads for the southern desert enroute to Mt. Horeb when he is overcome with desolation and wants to die. Suddenly an angel appears and provides him with food and drink to get up and finish his trip.

Reading II: Ephesians 4: 30 – 5:2

This section of the Letter presents an illustration of the type of conduct proper to a baptized Christian, who is now endowed with a whole new nature.

The Gospel: John 6: 41-51

After weathering a dispute that had arisen about His origin, Jesus declares Himself "the Bread of Life," that gives us the strength we need for the strength to complete our journey home.
