The Fourth of July

Happy Independence Day! Although this is a civil and not a religious holiday, we have much to be thankful for that God has chosen us to be able to live here in the United States, it is a great blessing. For we do have a wonderful country built on principles that have their very roots in the teachings of our Lord. I don't know how religious our Founding Fathers really were, but they did have a pretty well formed Christian foundation and much of this found its way into our laws and principles upon which our government was founded. While we may not always, individually or the country as a whole, follow these principles, we are very fortunate to have them and to be protected by them. Our representative democracy, the balance of powers and free-market economic system give us the freedom, opportunity and protection that have been the hallmark of our country from its foundation as well as the envy of many nations. It's true that we have not always exercised our democracy the best. Because of this, we always must be vigilant in maintaining the highest possible ethical and moral behavior. In fact, we should demand it from our elected officials. Our system can only be effective in promoting our welfare if those in authority are moral and just.

Of course, it is easy to point the finger at those in the government but we are the ones who put them there, whether it was by our vote or by our apathy. It is part of our civic responsibility to be informed, active members of the political process. We need to find out what the people running for office really believe, beyond their campaign rhetoric. Look at how they vote. Look at how they act. Do they support our Christian faith and beliefs or do they support positions that are contrary to our faith? I am not calling for a theocracy, but if we believe God has revealed to us a moral code that is designed to promote the wellbeing of all humanity, not just believers, why would we not seek to elect officials who would promote God's vision of humanity? Our first president, George Washington understood this very well, I think, when he stated in his farewell address, "Of all the dispositions and habits which lead to political prosperity, religion and morality are indispensable supports . . . And let us indulge with caution the supposition that morality can be maintained without religion . . . Reason and experience both forbid us to expect that national morality can prevail to the exclusion of religious principle."

I briefly mentioned the concept of civic duty above. As citizens of a common state we have a social responsibility to support the common good of all, not just ourselves individually. I feel that a large part of the political hostility that we experience nowadays, where one side disagrees with the other no matter what the position, is due principally by an erosion of all of us in looking to the common good. Sometimes we are so concerned about ourselves and our narrow interests that we resist giving a bit back so that everyone benefits, and because of that nearly everyone suffers. On the other hand, when the majority work for the common good then everyone benefits - usually more than if they were working for their own good alone.

Our country has been and continues to be an example of freedom and opportunity to the rest of the world. We should be very grateful to our Lord that he deigned for us to be Americans, despite our imperfections. As we celebrate our independence day and the founding of our country, let us do so with great thanks for all of the blessings we receive as citizens of this great country and recommit ourselves to working toward the good of all who live in the land of the free and the home of the brave.

God bless you,
Father Joseph Byerley

The heart of our ministry is Stephen Ministry, the lay caring ministry system used in thousands of congregations and other organizations worldwide.

Pray for those Soldiers, Sailors, Airmen, Marines and Guardians who are still standing watch over our nation.
Many of them don't get to stay at home, but are being called to stand in the midst of those who are most vulnerable.

Our chaplains are there with them, tending to the spiritual care of military families as you are in your parishes.

Please pray that the Lord would protect and nurture the military and their families.

STEWARDSHIP LIFESTYLE

"...as a matter of equality your abundance at the present time should supply their want, so that their abundance may supply your want, that there may be equality." --2 Corinthians 8:14

One of the tenants of living a grateful and generous Stewardship lifestyle is giving without expecting anything in return.

It is important that we not only grow, nurture, and share our gifts, but that we also teach our children and encourage others to do the same. This is the communal aspect of our Catholic faith.

We are the "Body of Christ." We are called to be dependent on each other and not live in isolation.
